

? WHY PAY RENT ?

Buy a Home of Your Own in the beautiful CAPITOL HILL ADDITION. We have recently purchased the seventy acres of the old Brevard school, and have platted it in acre lots with wide streets and alleys. This property is nicely situated, being within from 8 to 10 blocks of the center of the business portion of Ada. We expect to give you a chance to own a valuable lot in the capital of Pontotoc county by selling these lots on the installment plan.

Ada is now the county seat, and has a great future before it. We have three railroads with a prospect of two more, a cotton compress, a cotton oil mill, a pressed brick plant, and numerous smaller industries. Also have a large cement plant under construction that will employ 250 men, there is under construction a cannery factory and the city is spending $40,000 on additional water works.

WHY SHOULD ADA NOT GROW?

CAPITOL HILL lies northeast of the business portion of the city, and has a fine view of the city. Plenty of good water at from 15 to 20 feet.

If you expect to grow up with the town now is the time to GET IN ON THE GROUND FLOOR.

WEAVER'S ADVOCACY OF SCHOOL LAND RETENTION

This week the constitutional convention adopted the committee's minority report, declining to take any action touching the disposition of the state school lands, but leaving the question to the legislature.

Delegate Carlton Weaver has given the subject considerable thought and investigation, and is an earnest advocate of the state's retention of the lands as opposed to their sale as desired by the lessees. Mr. Weaver earnestly desired the passage of a constitutional provision prohibiting the sale of the lands, but the convention, claiming such action might jeopardize the approval of the constitution, adopted the minority report. The dispatches give the following as Mr. Weaver's protest on the floor of the convention, against the minority report:

"I suppose it is useless for me to say anything relative to this proposition for every man has made up his mind on this proposition. I feel it would be doing an injustice to my constituents and my own convictions were I not to enter a protest against the minority report made by this committee. I would like to see the democratic

CONVENTION APPEARS TODAY BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Guthrie, Okla., Feb. 23.—The constitutional convention has made answer to the Greer county injunction case, set for hearing today before the supreme court, and alleges the court has no jurisdiction in the matter at issue because it has no jurisdiction of the persons of defendants (members of the constitutional convention); has no jurisdiction of the subject; has no jurisdiction in injunction cases, and because the petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. Seventy-seven members of the convention signed the answer and will be represented today in court by Attorneys Leahy, Hays, King, Kane, Asp and Ledbetter, delegates to the convention.

The committee on rules, which has had under investigation for thirty days the alleged irregularities connected with the location of a county seat of Harper county, will report to the convention, with the request that the convention settle it. As the testimony has been taken in executive session the nature of it is not obtainable, but the story is prevalent that no case has been made.

The convention had under discussion yesterday the amendment of Mr. Williams of Durant to the provision on private corporations seeking to prevent the piping of gas beyond the state's border. The legal effect of such a provision was questioned as being in conflict with the interstate commerce act and inoperative as the constitution would contemplate. The amendment was sent to the judiciary committee for an opinion.

A section of the provision was reconsidered that no corporation shall hold or own any stock or bonds of any other corporation in or out of the state except such as are pledged in good faith to secure to a bona fide debt. An amendment was offered limiting the restrictions to preventing a corporation holding stock in a like corporation, which was objected to by Mr. Chambers of Atoka, Mr. Williams of Durant and Henshaw of Madill. Mr. Chambers presented a petition from Atoka citizens against any modification of the original provision. Mr. Williams and Mr. Henshaw joined in demanding the section without amendment other than removing restrictions as to bonds. It was asserted that the officers of two trust companies operating in Atoka and Ardmore, one which controlled stock in twelve banks, had worked up the movement for reconsideration. Without voting the convention adjourned.

FRANTZ' REMARKS ON JIM CROW START SENSATION

Guthrie, Okla., Feb. 23.—A good-sized sensation has grown out of the remarks of Gov. Frantz made at a Republican rally Thursday night regarding the work of the Democratic majority in the convention, when he is reported to have endorsed the theory that President Roosevelt would reject the Constitution with the Jim Crow provision there. The Governor, who was the principal speaker of the evening, asserts he read from manuscript and strenuously denies the imputation. Typewritten copies of that portion of his speech in question have been issued by the Republican Press Bureau and sent to all parts of the two Territories in an effort to show that the Governor has been grossly misquoted. The remarks to the effect that the delegates were right in their fear of rejection on account of Jim Crow legislation, attributed to him by those in the audience, do not appear in the speech handed out yesterday. It does show him as saying:

"In view of the enabling act the Republican party dares them to put the Jim Crow provision in the constitution, and turning to the platform pledges, the Democratic party dares them not to put it in." He then quotes from a speech he heard in the convention hall.

"I am in possession of no information," said the Governor last night, "although many believe to the contrary. Since the question has been up I have been approached a number of times to know just what the President has said to me about Jim Crow. He has said nothing to me."

The situation is viewed with interest, since Gov. Frantz is the President's official representative in Oklahoma. Heretofore the Republicans have quietly urged that the provision might be incorporated without fear from the President, which increases belief among the delegates that a political trap was being laid to spring after the Constitution was signed and delivered.

WHAT THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION HAS DONE

It has adopted the best Bill of Rights ever written in any state constitution.

It has made the initiative and referendum modeled after the Oregon law an integral part of our constitution.

It has provided for two cent railroad fares in the state of Oklahoma.

It has prevented the importation of armed forces by corporations to commit depredations and terrorize our citizens.

It has provided for a fellow servant law that meets the approval of federated labor and that is fair and just to corporations.

It has provided for an adequate system of mine inspection and will abolish child labor.

It has forbidden the intermarriage of whites and blacks.

It has provided a good system of exemption laws.

It has made it impossible for bank failures to steal our public school fund.

It has provided that the state may engage in business in order to check encroachment of corporations.

It has put a check upon government by injunction and guaranteed to our citizens in all matters the right of trial by jury.

It has provided for a system of good roads.

It has placed the control of all corporations in the hands of the people.

It has provided the best railroad commission law in the world.

It has given to the people of the new state a blanket primary system so that all officials may be chosen by direct vote of the people.

These are some of the great laws for the benefit of the people of Oklahoma that have been passed.

We defy the carpet bagger, the federal officials, the Republican Press Bureau, or any other interests who are fighting the constitution and statehood to point to one provision in the constitution that is not for the benefit of the people of the whole state.—Democratic Press Bureau.

Engineer O'Neal Here.

M. Griffin O'Neal, employed by the city to supervise the new waterworks construction, arrived from Dallas last afternoon. He will be here for several days.

Some member of his engineering company will be here constantly to look after the work in behalf of the city. Mr. O'Neal says that on account of the difficulty of getting material delivered it will be several weeks before it will be possible to make any big showing on the work out at the reservoir site. However a force of laborers will be kept busy blazing the way for the improvements. Already the timber has been cleared from about half of the bed of the future lake, and progress is being made in digging

SHOES

We wish to remind every man, woman and child who reads this paper that we have the best selected and cheap line of shoes in the Indian Territory.

Although leather is very high we retain the old price of $1.50 on our Noted Southland Belle Shoes.

Our Southern Girl Shoe at $2.00 has no equal, and our Autograph Line at $2.50 stands in a class to itself as no equal has ever been found at the price.

The above brands are our "Specialty" Ladies shoes. Ask to see them, we take pride in showing these shoes. Why? Because they are such good values and we can stand behind them.

In Men's shoes we make a specialty of $2.00, $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50 shoes.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY SOCIAL FUNCTIONS GALORE

SOROSIS

On Friday afternoon the pleasant home of Mrs. I. M. King was thrown open to Sorosis, also a number of invited guests.

This being Washington's birthday, very tastefully had the home been decorated in the national colors, and on gazing at the numerous flags displayed throughout the rooms one was forcibly reminded that it was the same old flag that Washington fought so valiantly for, and that his memory will ever live in the hearts of his countrymen.

This being a holiday all business was laid aside. The lesson from Shakespeare was also omitted.

MUST DRINK WATER.

Advice and Simple Prescription By An Eminent Authority.

"The people here do not drink enough water to keep healthy," exclaimed a well-known authority. "The numerous cases of stomach trouble, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected."

Stop loading your stomach with patent medicines and cure-alls; but get on the water wagon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines—plain common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."

When requested for such a prescription for the cure of rheumatism and kidney trouble the answer was: "You must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out of the blood the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so that it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and, most of all, you must keep these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach troubles and poor digestion. For these conditions I would suggest the following prescription, which is composed of only vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy. Anyone can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. To be taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, but don't forget the water. Drink plenty and often." This valuable information and simple prescription should be posted up in each household and used at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache or urinary trouble, no matter how slight.

Oil Mill for Maud.

Shawnee, Okla., Feb. 12.—E. L. Timmons, county surveyor, has just completed the laying off of the plat for a big oil mill to be erected at Maud on the Katy. Mayor Aydelotte and P. A. Norris, both largely interested in the cotton oil mill here, will build the plant at a cost of $125,000.

MODERN SOLOMON ON BENCH.

Ruling of a South American Justice in a Wife Desertion Case.

A judicial decision which rivals some of Sancho Panza's rulings in his island is reported from Valparaiso, in the correspondence of a German newspaper. The case was that of the wife of a fisherman and coastwise sailor who was deserted by her husband shortly before the birth of their first child.

The woman complained to the authorities and the police were ordered to keep a lookout for the truant. They got him after a few months, and he was haled before the alcalde and confronted with his wife, who carried the baby in her arms.

The facts in the case were undeniable; the defendant did not attempt to deny them. It seemed as if nothing remained for the magistrate but to assess the amount of alimony.

He paused, however, and reflected solemnly for a while. Then he asked the young woman:

"What was your occupation before you married this man?"

"I was a servant girl, Excellency," she replied.

"And what used you to earn in those days?"

"Ten pesos a month, sir."

"How have you supported yourself since your husband disappeared?"

"Since the birth of my boy, Excellency, I have taken a situation as a wet nurse."

"And what may be your wages in that position?"

"Thirty pesos a month, your Honor."

"Ah so! Well, it seems to me the merits of this case are very plain. In becoming the husband of this young woman the prisoner has tripled her capacity for earning a livelihood. He has plainly conferred a great benefit upon her, for which it is only fitting that he should be compensated. I therefore rule that she shall pay him every month ten pesos by way of honorarium; this still leaves her twice as well off as she was before marriage. Next case!"

British Employes Protected.

There is a feature of the British Workmen's Compensation act that shows the thoroughness of the legislation secured through the efforts of the labor members of parliament. Not only does the act provide for the payment of indemnity to mechanics and laborers in cases of damage by accident, but domestic servants are also included in the protected classes.

According to the last census there are 1,641,154 female domestic servants in Great Britain. The new legal responsibilities of mistresses and other employers of these servants may be summarized as follows:

In the event of death resulting from an accident the liability of the employer is the payment of three years' wages and an allowance for board, the total sum not to exceed $450. For temporary disablement, one-half the wages and an allowance for board must be paid during the period of incapacity. In the event of permanent disablement the provision is the same as in the case of temporary disablement, even though the person disabled may be incapacitated from work for a lifetime of many years.

The accident insurance companies are adjusting their premium rates on domestic servants to meet the conditions. Another adjustment due to the passage of the act will be the collection of the insurance premiums from employers instead of from servants.

The premium per employe per annum in the domestic class will probably be $1.20, although doubtless reductions will be given by some companies apportioned in accordance with the surroundings of employment.

Moods of the "Four Hundred."

When you begin to see the restaurants crowded to overflowing with smiling, chattering, well-dressed, rather conspicuous looking parties and when from every other hansom a hand waves or a head bows, when you cannot walk a block without meeting some friend or acquaintance, you might—if you do not know better—be excused for saying to yourself, "Ah, ah, town is filling up!" But not at all. These good people come from their country places for the day, or perhaps the week if they are sufficiently interested.

They may half-open their town houses, but they will tell you that they are "picnicking." They wear their prettiest clothes, manners and expressions; they lunch and dine together; they are the observed of all observers at the Garden (where you quite as often hear a milliner exclaim, "That's our hat in the box!" as a groom, "That's our horse in the ring!") and then, presto! they all vanish. North, south, east and west; to stay with each other, to ride, golf or automobile, as their tastes dictate, while New York is left to its ordinary work-a-day inhabitants, and the occasional charming Fashion Plates who "run in" to do a few hours' shopping for winter fancies.—Mary Manners in Broadway.

Precautions.

"What have you to be thankful for?" asked the discouraged person. "I don't know yet," answered the optimist. "And when I find out I'm going to keep it a secret for fear somebody like you will try to argue me out of it."—Washington Star.

Had a Good Chance to Judge.

The Deacon—Insomnia is an awful thing. The Parson—Yes; but from what I see I guess there is precious little of it in my congregation.—Yonkers Statesman.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

of note were brought out in the discussion.

After the program all were engaged in a contest, that of building the most words from the letters contained in the name "Washington." Mrs. Thompson having the greatest number, won the prize—a handsome plate, a memorial of Washington.

The hostess then served a delicious two course luncheon. She was assisted in receiving by Miss Susie Higgins and Miss Clara Kennedy of Oklahoma City. Delightful music was furnished by the string band.

Following is a list of guests: Mesdames Thornton, Ebey, Simpson, Higgins, King, Biles, Vincent, and the Misses Higgins and Kennedy.

And thus the afternoon wore away, good-byes were said and each departed for their homes, feeling they had spent a pleasant afternoon.

FORTY-TWO CLUB

Seldom has there been in the history of Ada so enjoyable a time at that afforded the Forty-two club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Duncan last evening. They are inimitable in the art of making guests feel comfortable, feel at home—indeed so much better than at home that they reluctantly leave for home.

A pleasant game of progressive forty-two, according to custom of the club, was the ranking pastime of the evening. The pleasure was enhanced by tasteful decorations. Pendant over each table was a ganglion of patriotic festoon, in which were conspicuous the Washington hatchet and cherries. Also the score cards were artistically patterned after the weapon with which the Father of His Country made his vandalistic attack upon the homestead forestry. Moreover there were powdered crests to remind one of the days colonial. The game itself was a pleasure, though as usual gentlemen were careless and "threw off" while the ladies did the work.

Most toothsome refreshments, seasonably terminated the game, and guests were favored with some excellent music.

B. Y. P. U.

The home of Judge and Mrs. U. G. Winn was a scene of loveliness last evening, the occasion being the entertainment given for the members of the B. Y. P. U., and their friends. The home was beautifully decorated, the colors red, white and blue being used, while the hatchet and the cherry tree were in evidence to remind all of the birthday of George Washington. The program consisted of appropriate music, readings and lively contests. Delicious refreshments were served, consisting of punch, fruit salad, cake and chocolate. Mrs. Winn and her sister, Miss Nettie Gibbs, proved themselves ideal hostesses. In bidding them "good night," all of the large crowd of young people, who were present, thanked them most heartily for the delightful evening, and expressed wishes for a speedy recurrence of such an occasion.

TWENTIETH CENTURY

The members of the XX Century Club entertained their husbands at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Thornton on Friday evening. The house was very beautifully and appropriately decorated with national flags. Dominoes was the game for the evening, interspersed with instrumental music.

Small flags were used for the scores, an additional star being added for each game won. When the game was finished some flags were literally covered with "new stars."

Delicious ice cream was served with the traditional cherries and cake.

M. Y. P. S. C. E.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Snead last evening the Magnolia Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor assembled in a session both business and social in its nature.

The Washingtonian motif prevailed in decorations and in pastimes. Mr. and Mrs. Berry impersonated George and Martha Washington charmingly. "The Penny," "Advertisements" and "Our Presidents" were the chief games. Presnel Sugg was awarded the appropriate prize, a hatchet, for having won in the games.

Guests were regaled with dainty refreshments in which cherries were conspicuous.

The following new officers were chosen for the society: Mrs. Orville Snead, president; Miss Eula Clare Sims, vice president; Phillip Thompson, secretary; Alpha Sledge, treasurer; Alma Ingram, organist.

H. J. Brown for Justice

H. J. Brown has concluded to offer for the office of Justice of the Peace in the precinct to include Ada.

Mr. Brown is so well and favorably known in this community it is scarcely worth while to state his ambitions are subject the action of the Democratic primary; neither, perhaps, is it necessary for The News to comment on his general fitness for the office, yet, there are always some voters, however well known by the candidate, who want to know all about him—and they have a right to know.

Mr. Brown is a Tennessean by birth, and there resided a large portion of life. In that state for four years—in Putnam county—he made the people a good sheriff. That, with other positions of public trust, has given a thorough conception of ordinary official duties and has well equipped him for the tasks of an efficient precinct magistrate.

A citizen of Ada six years, he has engaged chiefly in contracting and building work, having built hundreds of houses in this city. Incidentally, for a time he was connected with his son Marvin in the publication of a newspaper in Ada, but the fact that he has been a newspaper man should not be held against him. He has repented. He is a contractor and builder again.

Mr. Brown is a christian gentleman, an excellent citizen, a pillar in the higher lodge world, a man of genuine judicial poise and stern integrity—one who would be an ornament to the office of justice of the peace.

For City Attorney.

Thomas P. Holt authorizes the News to announce his candidacy for city attorney of Ada subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

Of all those who have announced for the various offices of whatever character, there could not be promised for any of them more efficient service in any capacity in behalf of respective constituencies than that which will be awarded by Mr. Holt in the event he is elected to the important position of city attorney of Ada.

Mr. Holt has received the best college training both in the literary and law departments. He has been engaged in the practice of law several years, three of which have been in this district. Through his conscientious and intelligent attention to all business entrusted he has acquired a good clientele. Mr. Holt is courageous. He will perform his full duty should he be favored with the office. The News bespeaks for him the careful consideration of the voters of Ada.

Notice.

The Democrats of the city of Ada are requested to meet at the United States Commissioners court room Monday night, February 25, at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of electing officers of the Ada Democratic Club and to transact such other business as may be deemed advisable.

In case the court room can not be secured the meeting will be held at the Mayor's Office.

President Ada Democratic Club.

ABSORB THE POISON

PHYSICIAN TELLS OF QUALITIES OF "MADSTONES."

New Clay Pipe, Easily Procurable, as Good as Any—All Worthless When Venom Has Entered the Circulation.

Physicians are often asked whether there really is any virtue in what are called madstones. One of them, writing in the Medical Brief, declares that these stones are of value, but they would be of more value if their limitations were understood.

"There is no particular variety of stone or substance which may be designated exclusively as the madstone," he says. "I have seen many of them, so-called, and no two were of exactly the same composition, geologically considered."

"Madstones act on the same principle that a blotting paper does when absorbing ink, and there is nothing that makes a better one than baked pipe clay. A new clay pipe, procurable for one cent at nearly any store where tobacco is sold, can not be excelled by any madstone, no matter how great its reputation."

"The action can be clearly demonstrated by placing a common dry red brick in contact with the margin of a puddle of water and noticing what capillary attraction will accomplish. Therefore, to be efficient, the only necessity is for the stone to be porous and have strong adhesive and absorbent qualities. Nothing mysterious about it."

"I have seen several that appear to be concretions, either vesical, renal or biliary and were found in the bladder, kidney or liver of some animal—those taken from the deer, supposed to be the best."

"When a person is bitten by a reptile or dog supposed to be mad and the porous stone applied to the wound, the blotting paper action begins, and the blood, saliva from the mouth of the animal and whatever poison these fluids contain will naturally, by capillary attraction, be absorbed by and into the substance applied, no matter what name you may give it."

"The saying that if a stone sticks the wound is poisonous, and if it does not take hold there is no venom present, is untrue. If the stone is clean and dry it will adhere when moisture is within reach till it becomes saturated."

"For instance, a new red brick will absorb one pint of water. After the venom has been taken into the circulation the madstone is worthless; but as the victim it usually filled with whisky or alcohol at the same time the stone is being used the spirits may counteract the effect of the poison."

"I know of a stone which has a wide reputation, and makes a good living for the family owning it. They never let it go out of their sight, and when the victim can not be taken to the stone one member of the family can be hired to take the stone to the victim. In addition to traveling expenses they charge $5 for the application and $2 extra for each hour that the stone sticks."

"This stone is busy a large part of the time. Not long since the stone held to a man's leg for over one hundred hours, yet the man died. His life could have been saved if dependence had not been placed entirely in the stone."

Russia's Royalties.

During the hottest months of summer the Russian imperial family remove to the Cottage, a seaside palace, in the Alexander Park, at Peterhoff, on the Gulf of Finland.

The Alexander palace is a long, low, white building in the midst of a lovely park. Its beautiful private gardens are ablaze with flowers, and there are all sorts of surprises for the favored visitor. Here is a miniature fort, there different athletic apparatus, and a little cottage, with a stable and dear little garden round it, where the small grand duchesses experiment in house-keeping and gardening. When they are tired of that sort of amusement they can enjoy motoring, riding or driving in the long wooded avenue which surround the palace, says Home Notes.

Inside the great hall at Peterhoff there are fitted toboggan slides for bad weather; the palace is, indeed, holiday house, and whatever cares the five children may have in the future, owing to their exalted position, their childhood is at any rate as happy and unspoiled as was that of their mother—little Princess "Sunny," as she used to be called.

Had a Feeling of Curiosity.

"I was asked to find out when you would pay this little account," said the collector, pleasantly.

"Really," answered the debtor, "I am unable to enlighten you. However, there is a soothsayer in the next block who throws a fit and reveals the future at 50 cents a throw."

"I've no money to waste," growled the collector.

"Just add the 50 cents to my account," continued the other, "for I have a curiosity on the point myself."

TALE OF FELINE SAGACITY.

Wondrous Story Wasted on Circle of Unbelievers.

"I've got an old tom cat at my house that once saved nine lives."

"That's easy," butted in the man who had his feet on the table. "He dodged the flatiron that you threw at him."

"Perhaps he got tired of being starved at your house and crawled away to some neighbor's," suggested the man with the baggy-kneed trousers.

"Your shrewdness does you infinite credit, gentlemen," said the first speaker, handing each of them a cheap cigar. "Permit me to reward you. But you don't quite guess it. This cat, in nosing around the premises, found a pitcher of cream. He stuck his head down into it. It was a tight fit, but he managed to get his head inside. Then he was in a fix. His nose was in the cream, and he couldn't get his head back through the opening. Any other cat would have suffocated to death inside of—"

"Why," interrupted the man with the green goggles, "didn't he—"

"Jam the pitcher against the floor and break it? I knew you would ask that question. He couldn't. It was made of pewter. I am telling this story, please remember, and don't cut in again. This cat was confused for a moment, of course. Any cat would have been. He clawed around a little, and stuck his tail up in the air, but he didn't make any sound. He had sense enough to know that he couldn't carry on a conversation with the outside world while his nose and mouth were buried in thick cream. He squatted down and seemed to consider the matter. Then he acted. He had made up his mind. He felt his way to the nearest wall, and when he found it he reared up on his hind feet and stuck his head, with that cream pitcher on it, straight up in the air and stood there. That inverted the pitcher, you know, and the cream began to ooze out and run down on the floor. Presently his tail began to wag leisurely, as if to convey the assurance to the watchers that he was all right. He could breathe again. Then he sat down on the floor and proceeded to push the pitcher off his head with his forepaws. He wasn't in any hurry about it. He knew there would be no trouble. The cream had lubricated his head, and it slipped out just as easy as—"

But his hearers had filed out. They said there was a point at which lying ceased to be merely a sin and became a crime.

Natives Can't Swim.

A Washington man tells of a recent visit to a benighted section of a southwestern state—a region so uninviting and unpromising that even the residents thereof evince for it the greatest disgust. Many would leave if they could, but, as they themselves say: "There ain't nothin' to do but stay an' have the chills and fever."

The Washington man was riding along the banks of the river that waters this section, and although he had gone some 20 miles or so he had not in all that distance noticed a single fisherman. Meeting a man lounging near the stream, he asked:

"Why doesn't someone fish in this river?"

"Ain't no fish," was the laconic response of the native.

"No fish in such a beautiful river as this!" exclaimed the astonished Washingtonian. "Why not?"

The native lazily shifted his position and answered:

"Stranger, if you could git outer this country as easy as a fish can, do you reckon you'd be here?"—Harper's Weekly.

Always at Hand.

Not a great many years ago a number of families in Charlestown, Mass., kept hens, and it was a common sight to see them foraging about on any street in the residential section.

One afternoon a group of small boys were playing "Grand Army" on Bunker Hill street. One boy was the commander, another the adjutant, and the other boy the comrades. As the boys moved up and down the street, the hens followed along, pecking away, a safe distance from the rear.

Suddenly one of the "comrades" commenced to cry. The game stopped and the commander asked: "What's the matter, Johnny?"

"I ain't going to play if those old hens keep tagging on behind us," sobbed Johnny?

"Never mind," said the commander. "We'll play the hens are the Woman's Relief Corps, see!"

Mining in the Deep Blue Sea.

The search for the treasure of the Spanish Armada galleon Florencia is being proceeded with vigorously in Tobermory bay, Scotland, and the salvors have been encouraged by their finds. Part of the rigging of the sunken ship has already been found.

Among other interesting relics brought up were two stone cannon balls, six and a half inches in diameter, one iron shot of about two inches in diameter and a blunderbuss with an inch bore. The divers have come across large quantities of wood in all directions and other unmistakable signs that they are close to the hull of the Florencia.

VAST WEALTH OURS

UNITED STATES RICHEST COUNTRY ON EARTH.

Outstripping Anything That Ever Has Been Known in History Is the Measure of Uncle Sam's Affluence.

The United States is the wealthiest country in the world. In the brief span of its young life this infant nation of ours has broken all records relating to the accumulation of riches, and we are beginning to think of billions instead of millions. Take it any way you like, and the measure of our affluence outstrips anything that has ever been known before, says the New York Sun.

Our country has more actual money, more gold, a larger volume of exports, greater banking facilities, richer farms, more productive mines, more millionaires, more well-to-do tradesmen, more independent farmers, more highly paid laborers and a greater distribution of the luxuries which riches bring than any other nation has ever enjoyed since time began.

One day last October Uncle Sam had gathered into his money storehouse in Washington the greatest amount of gold ever collected at one place in the history of the world—gold representing $871,893,899. This was indeed a high-water mark. We had there in one little room more gold than was in circulation in Great Britain.

The largest receipt ever given, the greatest money trust ever undertaken in history, was when the present treasurer of the United States, Charles H. Treat, went into office. He receipts to Ellis H. Roberts, the retiring treasurer, for all the money and securities in the vaults of the treasury, a total of $1,259,598,278.58. It required from July 1 to September 5 to count the money, and at the completion of the task the accounts balanced to a fraction.

The costliest governmental establishment in the world is the British navy, upon which a billion and a half has been expended within the last ten years. Yet three individual Americans—Rockefeller, Carnegie and Clark—could have paid the whole bill and still have some pocket money left. The United States is now spending about a hundred millions a year on its navy, and we are new at this kind of expenditure. That we are not investing more than we can afford is shown by the fact that our display-loving women spent $100,000,000 for diamonds purchased in foreign lands during the last two years. In fact, we are so rich that the sales of produce and manufactured articles that we are sending abroad each year is equal to a sum sufficient to support all the navies in the world.

When it comes in individual wealth we have a dozen citizens who are worth more than all the kings and rulers of the world, taken collectively or severally. The czar of Russia is reputed to have a greater income than any other living man, but his private fortune is so mixed up with the governmental revenues that it is impossible to separate them. If a distinction could be made John D. Rockefeller could undoubtedly make a comparison with the weak-spined Nicholas, and show the biggest pile. The Russian monarch's wealth is the accumulation of an empire, centuries old in the making, while the Ohio oil magnate can remember when he had nothing.

To say that the total valuation of the wealth of the United States is $107,000,000,000 is not understandable. A hundred billion dollars is such a pile of money that the simple mind cannot grasp its meaning on the instant. It is more than twice the total amount of the wealth of the United Kingdom, of France, or of Germany; and over three times that of Russia or of Austria-Hungary. Probably the best way of illustrating the actual extent of Uncle Sam's riches is to state that if he could convert all his assets into money he would have nearly four times as much as would be required to pay off the entire national debt of all the governments in the world, including his own.

Cost $1,400 to Collect $1.

The most expensive member of Uncle Sam's custom service is the collector of the port of the Little Egg harbor (Pa.) district. It's not his fault, however. He's just as vigilant as the hawks of the great port of New York, where it costs about three or four cents to collect one dollar of customs. Dutiable goods seldom come into Tuckerton, and when 40 cents was returned to Secretary Shaw as the total customs receipts for this district, Collector Frank Willing Leach didn't send with it a letter of apology. He just knew that he couldn't help it if it had cost Uncle Sam at the rate of about $1,400 a year to collect a dollar.

Mr. Leach was formerly secretary to Senator Quay. His appointment to the collectorship two years ago at a salary of about $560 annually was a surprise, for it was not known that he was a candidate. He's willing to keep the place, however, and even made a fight to save his district from being abolished, as it is likely to be along with a number of others where the cost of collection is enormously out of proportion to the receipts.

TITLES TO ARCTIC LANDS.

Lands Hitherto Unknown Discovered and Named by Explorers.

The voyage of the Canadian government cruiser Arctic to the far north suggests for consideration the question of the ownership of some far northern lands. For many years explorers of various nationalities—British, American, Scandinavian and others—have ventured into the frozen wilderness lying between the Dominion of Canada and the north pole, and have there discovered lands hitherto unknown and have named them and planted flags upon them. There has been much international rivalry in the work of elaborating the arctic map and of pushing on toward the pole.

But there has been little thought in the minds of the adventurers or in that of the public of the delimitation of international boundaries in the realms of paleocrycitic ice and eternal snow. But now the Canadian government brings that thought to mind in the intimation that the Dominion extends clear to the north pole and that all the lands which have been discovered and explored in those regions, no matter by whom, are under the British flag.

Academically the question is somewhat complicated and might form the subject of interminable argument. There are those who hold that discovery and exploration give title to new lands, while others insist that title is not perfected without actual occupation and permanent settlement. But how if the lands in question are not fit for or susceptible of settlement?

NEW IDEA FOR INVENTORS.

Something the World Needs and Would Pay Well For.

"Inventors would get untold gobs of free advertising if they would give to their inventions names ryming with some one or other of our 5,000 rhymeless words," an editor said.

"Take the word 'silver.' It has no rhyme. It is a stumbling block to every poet. The poet uses it at a line's end and then has to destroy the line because there is no rhyme for it. Suppose, as he sought frantically, an invention called the 'silver' appeared. Then, in order not to lose his line, the poet would drag in the new invention, thus giving it an 'ad' worth $5 to $10, an ad like this:

"The moonlit sea, a sea of silver, As perfect as a perfect diver."

"Do you catch the idea? Yet our inventors exercise their best talent, call a new aeroplane a 'wolf' to rhyme with 'wolf,' a new soundless typewriter a 'gorance' to rhyme with 'orange,' a home ice-making machine a 'kulf' to rhyme with 'gulf,' and so on."

Alligator's Affection.

It seems that if you only begin early enough, it is possible to tame even the fiercest animals. A baby alligator, caught in a swamp, was taken to the home of its captor in New York, and in the course of time it would follow him about like a dog. What was even more curious was that it and the cat became great chums. When pussy slept before the fire the alligator used to lay its head on the cat and go to sleep, too. The only creature that excited the alligator was a fox, chained in a yard. It did not try to bite the fox, but lashed it with its tail. Once, had the chain not broken, poor Reynard would have been beaten to death. The alligator was fed on raw flesh and milk, of which it was very fond. When the weather was cold it was kept in a box with wool in it. One frosty night the wool had been forgotten, and next morning the alligator was found dead.

President Ob What?

President Roosevelt likes to leave the White house at times and make informal calls on his friends. One night last winter he strolled up to Attorney General Moody's house and rang the bell.

The negro butler came to the door. He peered out suspiciously and asked: "What you-all want?"

"I should like to see Mr. Moody."

"Mr. Moody ain't in to nobody."

"Oh, I guess he will see me. Tell him the president is here."

"The president?" said the butler, suspiciously.

"Yes, the president."

The butler pulled the door almost shut. He looked at Mr. Roosevelt's slouch hat with disdainful eye and inquired scornfully: "President ob what?"—Saturday Evening Post.

Black Teeth and Fidelity.

"The Japs are a fine race," said the sailor, "but there's one thing about them I don't like. The married women all blacken their teeth with a paste made out of sweet oil and soot."

"When a young married woman gives you a smile, instead of being ravished with a glimpse as of snow on roses—pearly teeth gleaming between red lips—you look into a black hole. You frown. You turn away in disgust."

"The idea is that the married women's black teeth, making them unattractive, keeps them faithful to their husbands. Doesn't it have the opposite effect on the husbands, though? Perhaps, eh?"

Brave Man.

"Henry," whispered Mrs. Subbuss, shaking her sleepy husband. "I'm sure there are burglars downstairs."

"You go down and see, Mary," said he. "They wouldn't dare strike a woman."

HE GOT THE COONS

MODERN DAVY CROCKETT JUSTIFIED REPUTATION.

Animals Spouted From the "Volcano" In Drove After Uncle Sim Had Fixed Up His Little Surprise Party.

Coons bothered the farmers living at the foot of Jockey Cap mountain so this fall that the residents finally sent a committee over to Chittenden to beg Uncle Simeon Pitt to spend a week clearing them out, says the Northam, Vt., correspondent of the New York World. They figured that Uncle Sim could get 'em if any one could, for he has the reputation of being a sort of modern David Crockett. If this failed, they said they would be ready to throw up their hands.

While it seemed as though all the coons in the country had congregated on Jockey Cap just to make the lives of the farmers miserable, they really believed there were only a few, for every time a dog was "sicked" on to one of the marauders he landed at the end of a mammoth hollow log, the other end of which stuck fast to the base of a high cliff. They had predated this hollow log, forced smoke into it, set traps at its mouth and used every other means to get at the coons, but it was no use, and so the folk decided to send for Uncle Sim.

The famous coon hunter is getting along in years, but he responded vigorously to the call of distress, and the other day he showed up with his trusty rifle. The circumstance of the hollow log was explained to him before he had been in the village ten minutes, and, being the exemplification of promptness, the hunter hastened thither.

"Ye say every blessed coon's hiked right into this 'ere hollow hole an' got away?" he asked after he had made an inspection.

"That's jest it, uncle," replied Hosea Park, answering for the committee. "Every one has gone right in there."

Uncle Sim climbed to the top of the cliff, smiled with satisfaction and then asked for 20 men with guns. Forty-two responded and these uncle placed about a hole 30 rods back from the cliff's face.

"Now, chop that 'ere log right off clust to the rock," he commanded. "And you'll find that the hole continues right into a cave."

The surprised farmers did as requested and were astonished to discover a passageway leading into the mountain. That explained the mystery, but it didn't capture the coons. They were wondering how Uncle Sim was going to accomplish this feat when he ordered a big bonfire of wet twigs built at the mouth of the passageway.

"There's probably a mess of 'em in the cliff," he said, "an' we'll just smoke 'em right up through the hole in the top till they come out of the chimney like stuns out of a volcano."

Two minutes after the fire was started sounds of snarling and clawing came from within and immediately coons just spouted out of the "volcano." At the first signs of eruption the guns began to pop and as the fusillade continued it sounded as though a great battle was being fought. The air was full of bullets, buckshot, fur and exclamations, and when the volcano had exhausted itself coons were piled three feet deep all around the mouth of the crater. How many were killed no one knows, but there will be enough skins, according to reports, to carpet the church.

Old Time "Curl Up" Skates.

Few of the present generation of skaters ever saw a pair of old-fashioned "curl up" skates or know what they are, but if they are native born their parents or grandparents can probably tell them all about these old time appliances for skimming over the ice. The boys and girls of to-day have quick fastening, light and handsome skates, and in many cases keep them attached to shoes that are used only for skating and are put on at the pond side.

In the old days straps for the "curl ups" were unknown, leather thongs or stout strings being used with a sort of "harness" to keep the skates on the feet. The term "curl up" comes from the manner in which the forward end of the skate irons were curled, extending over the toe of the foot. Doubtless many of the old folks can remember when the cheapest skates consisted only of a wood bottom for the foot and a strip of metal for an ice surface. These were "cheap" indeed.

Not Arousing Indignation.

"I told you," said the merchant, "to mark this box 'handle with care.' What's this nonsense you've painted here?"

"That," said the college graduate, "is the Latin for 'handle with care.'"

"How do you expect the baggage man to understand that?"

"He won't, and, therefore, he won't get mad and smash the box."

In Its Usual Form.

"Great Scott! What ails your stenographer's spelling?"

"Ails it? Nothing. It's in its normal condition. She's a little in advance of the other spelling reformers; that's all."

Knocking.

Mrs. Crimmonbeak—I understand the last United States census reports ten women working as wheelwrights in the country.

Mr. Crimmonbeak—Well, they're the only women who use the wheel.

INSISTED ON BEING HANGED.

Murderers Who Have Pleaded for Execution of Sentence.

The case of the condemned murderer, who the other day practically sentenced himself by refusing to sign a petition for a reprieve, is not so rare as many people imagine.

One famous parallel instance was that of Rev. Mr. Hackman, who shot an actress, Miss Reay, as she was leaving the stage door of Convent Garden theater, and who, although actually offered a commutation, preferred to die upon the gallows in the expiation of his crime.

Only a few weeks back, again, the Ferlin papers chronicled the case of a wealthy land owner, who, having shot a servant in a fit of passion, tried him, with himself as judge, and sentenced himself to ten years' solitary confinement in one of his own private dungeons in his own medieval castle in the heart of the Black Forest.

Nine years and some odd months of this punishment he actually endured, his house steward doling him out daily a meager ration of coarse prison fare. Unluckily for him, however, the authorities got to hear of the affair and he was haled before the ordinary tribunal to await his trial in due course.

Another extraordinary case also, curiously enough, of German origin, was that of a sergeant major of an infantry regiment stationed in Bremen, who a few weeks back sentenced himself to be shot by a squad of his own men. The soldiers thought they were firing blank, but the self-condemned man had surreptitiously removed the harmless cartridges and substituted ball ammunition, so that at his own word of command, "Fire," he fell dead.

Finally, it may be mentioned that John Lee, the Babbarcombe murderer, who survived three separate attempts to hang him owing to some defect in the machinery of the drop, insisted vehemently that his sentence must be carried out "according to law."

This is, of course, quite contrary to the generally received opinion regarding the case. But the writer was recently assured of its correctness by the convict's own mother, and her assurance is borne out by Rev. John Pitkin, who was chaplain of Exeter gaol at the time.

Said this gentleman the other day: "When the attempt to execute him (Lee) failed, he called out again and again, 'I will be executed.' And when I suggested after the third attempt to take his life that the execution should be postponed, Lee exclaimed, 'Aren't they going to execute me? I will be executed!'"—Pearson's Weekly.

Intelligent Pharmacy.

One of the ablest physicians in New York was in financial straits in his young days, and looked long and hard for a job. Finally he was engaged in a small shop in Cherry street, in the midst of sailors' boarding houses "and sich." One night a woman asked for an ounce of some deadly poison. "What are you going to do with it?" said the young pharmacist. She replied quickly: "I am going to drink it; I am weary of living! I shall commit suicide." "In that case," she he, "I won't sell it to you; you will have to obtain it elsewhere." She laughed. "Oh, do you take me for a fool? If I wanted to kill myself do you suppose I'd tell you? Honestly, I want the medicine for my husband, a longshoreman, who is in great distress." "That's different," said our young friend, who thereupon sold the poison and made her sign for it. As she passed out of the door she yelled in maniac tones: "Ya, ya! I got you that time! I'll be in hell in seven minutes!"

Colors to the Blind.

"Have you any conception of color?" a friend asked a blind man. "What idea have you when you hear colors mentioned?"

"A person blind from birth as I have been can have no possible proper conception of color," was the reply. "To me color is sound, or rather, music. When I hear the word red, for example, I instantly think of a high piercing note of music; blue is to me a delicately sounded note fairly high and pleasing in tone; green is a soft tone and rather low, quiet and restful; while yellow is lively, quick little notes rapidly sounding and causing pleasure, almost to laughter. Black, alas! is the only color we can realize, for we are told that that is the absence of all light, and we know only too well what that means."

Garbed Like Player Queen.

As she came into the corridor of the opera house every woman's eye turned in her direction, attracted by the curious head covering she wore. It looked like one of the crowns a player wears in a Shakespearean play, since it consisted of nothing but a band of heavy gold braid, of the kind known technically as "saloon," with a circular top to it fashioned of purple velvet. Around her neck she wore a thin scarf of a shade that toned in with the color of the velvet and the final touch of Shakespearean suggestion was added when she lifted up her skirts, disclosing her ankles clad in mauve silk stockings and her feet covered with a pair of sandals in mauve colored kid through the openings in which the stockings could be plainly seen.

? WHY PAY RENT ?

Buy a Home of Your Own in the beautiful CAPITOL HILL ADDITION. We have recently purchased the seventy acres of the old Broad and school and have put it in lots with wide streets and alleys. This property is nicely situated, being within from 5 to 10 blocks of the center of the business portion of Ada. We expect to give you a chance to own a valuable lot in the capital of Pontotoc county by selling these lots on the installment plan.

Ada is now the county seat and has a great future before it. We have three railroads with a prospect of two more, a cotton compress, a cotton oil mill, a pressed brick plant and numerous smaller industries. Also have a large cement plant under construction that will employ 250 men there is under construction a canning factory and the city is spending $40,000 on additional water works.

WHY SHOULD ADA NOT GROW?

CAPITOL HILL lies northeast of the business portion of the city and has a fine view of the city. Plenty of good water at from 15 to 20 feet.

WEAVER'S ADVOCACY OF SCHOOL LAND RETENTION

This week the constitutional convention party go on record as a friend of the school children of Oklahoma. It is a report declining to take any action touching the disposition of the school lands, thus leaving the question to the legislature.

Delegatic Carl N. Weaver has given the subject considerable thought and investigation and is an earnest advocate of the states retention of the lands as opposed to their sale as desired by the lessees. Mr. Weaver earnestly desired the passage of a constitutional provision prohibiting the sale of the lands, but the convention, claiming such action might jeopardize the approval of the constitution, adopted the minority report. The dispatches give the following as Mr. Weavers protest on the floor of the convention, against the minority report.

"I suppose it is useless for me to say anything relative to this proposition for every man has made up his mind on this proposition. I feel it would be doing an injustice to my constituents and my own convictions were I not to enter a protest against the minority report made by this committee. I would like to see the democratic Texas party go on record as a friend of the school children of Oklahoma. It is a well known fact that the republican party in Oklahoma has championed the cause of the lessee and I am surprised to find that Pittman, saying that the lessee had not received just treatment at the hands of the legislature. I don't believe a gentleman in this house can point to me a single state that has successfully invested more than seven millions of dollars. Yet you would vote for a proposition that would exchange land of Oklahoma for thirty millions of dollars and have a fund that would never be successfully invested by the state authorities. Those speaking on the other side have failed to show where a single state selling their land have profited by it."

Guthrie, Okla., Feb. 23.—The constitutional convention has made answer to the Greer county injunction case, set for hearing today before the supreme court, and alleges the court has no jurisdiction in the matter at issue because it has no jurisdiction of the persons of defendants (members of the constitutional convention), has no jurisdiction of the subject, has no jurisdiction in injunction cases, and because the petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. Seventy-seven members of the convention signed the answer and will be represented today in court by Attorneys Leahy, Hays, King, Kane, Asp and Ledbetter, delegates to the convention.

The committee on rules, which has had under investigation for thirty days the alleged irregularities connected with the location of a county seat of Harper county, will report to the convention, with the request that the convention settle it. As the testimony has been taken in executive session the nature of it is not obtainable, but the story is prevalent that no case has been made.

The convention had under discussion yesterday the amendment of Mr. Williams of Durant to the provision on private corporations seeking to prevent the piping of gas beyond the state's border. The legal effect of such a provision was questioned as being in conflict with the interstate commerce act and inoperative as the constitution would contemplate. The amendment was sent to the judiciary committee for an opinion.

A section of the provision was reconsidered that no corporation shall hold or own any stock or bonds of any other corporation in or out of the state except such as are pledged in good faith to secure to a bona fide debt. An amendment was offered limiting the restrictions to preventing a corporation holding stock in a like corporation, which was objected to by Mr. Chambers of Atoka, Mr. Williams of Durant and Henshaw of Madill. Mr. Chambers presented a petition from Atoka citizens against any modification of the original provision. Mr. Williams and Mr. Henshaw joined in demanding the section without amendment other than removing restrictions as to bonds. It was asserted that the officers of two trust companies operating in Atoka and Admore one which controlled stock in Atoka banks, had won the movement for reconsideration. Without voting the convention adjourned.

FRANZ' REMARKS ON JIM CROW START SENSATION

Guthrie, Ok., Feb. 23.—A good sized sensation has grown out of the remarks of Gov. Franz made at a Republican rally Thursday night regarding the work of the Democratic majority in the convention, when he is reported to have endorsed the theory that President Roosevelt would reject the Constitution with the Jim Crow provision there.

The Governor, who was the principal speaker of the evening, asserts he read from manuscript and strenuously denies the imputation. Typewritten copies of that portion of his speech in question have been issued by the Republican Press Bureau and sent to all parts of the two Territories in an effort to show that the Governor has been grossly misquoted. The remarks to the effect that the delegates were right in their fear of rejection on account of Jim Crow legislation, attributed to him by those in the audience, do not appear in the speech handed out yesterday. It does show him as saying:

"In view of the ending of the Republican party dates from the time Jim Crow provision in the constitution, and turning to the platform of the Democratic party dates from the time it was put in. He then said that he had heard in the past that I am in possession of the constitution and the Governor, although many say to the contrary. Since the constitution has been up to the time I have been here, I have not had time to know just what the constitution has said to me about Jim Crow. He has said nothing to me."

The situation is viewed with interest since Gov. Franz is the identical official representative in Oklahoma. Heretofore the Republican party has urged that the provision might be incorporated without fear from the President, who has married a white woman, and that a political trap was being laid to spring after the Constitution was signed and delivered.

WHAT THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION HAS DONE

It has adopted the best Bill of Rights ever written in any state constitution.

It has made the initiative and referendum modeled after the Oregon law an integral part of our constitution.

It has provided for two cent railroad fares in the state of Oklahoma.

It has prevented the impartment of armed forces by corporations to commit depredations and terrorize our citizens.

It has provided for a fellow citizen law that meets the approval of federated labor and that is fair and just to corporations.

It has provided for an adequate system of mine inspection and will abolish child labor.

It has forbidden the intermarriage of whites and blacks.

It has provided a good system of taxation and has made it impossible for a tax collector to steal our public school fund.

It has provided that the state may engage in business in order to check encroachment of corporations.

It has put a check upon government by injunction and guaranteed citizens in all matters the right of jury trial.

It has provided for a system of good roads.

It has placed the control of all corporations in the hands of the people.

It has provided the best railroad commission law in the world.

It has given to the state a link primary system so that all who may be chosen by direct vote of the people.

These are some of the great laws for the benefit of the people of Oklahoma that have been enacted.

We have a constitution that is a masterpiece of wisdom and foresight. It is a constitution that will stand the test of time and will be a source of pride to the people of Oklahoma.

SHOES

We wish to remind every man, woman and child who reads this paper that we have the best selected and cheapest line of shoes in the Indian Territory.

Although leather is very high we retain the old price of $1.50 on our Noted Southland Belle Shoes.

Our Southern Girl Shoe at $2.00 has no equal, and our Autograph Line at $2.50 stands in a class to itself as no equal has ever been found at the price.

The above brands are our "Specialty" Ladies shoes. Ask to see them, we take pride in showing these shoes. Why? Because they are such good values and we can stand behind them.

In Men's shoes we make a specialty of $2.00, $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50 shoes.

Men! If you will put your time against ours and come to our store we will prove that these shoes cannot be duplicated anywhere.

MUST DRINK WATER.

Advice and Simple Prescription By An Eminent Authority.

"The people here do not drink enough water to keep healthy," exclaimed a well-known authority. "The numerous cases of stomach trouble, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected."

Stop loading your stomach with patent medicines and cure-alls; but get on the water wagon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines—plain common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."

When requested for such a prescription for the cure of rheumatism and kidney trouble the answer was: "You must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out of the blood the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so that it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and, most of all, you must keep these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach troubles and poor digestion. For these conditions I would suggest the following prescription, which is composed of only vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy. Anyone can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. To be taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, but don't forget the water. Drink plenty and often." This valuable information and simple prescription should be posted up in each household and used at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache or urinary trouble, no matter how slight.

MODERN SOLOMON ON BENCH.

Ruling of a South American Justice in a Wife Desertion Case.

A judicial decision which rivals some of Sancho Panza's rulings in his island is reported from Valparaiso, in the correspondence of a German newspaper. The case was that of the wife of a fisherman and coastwise sailor who was deserted by her husband shortly before the birth of their first child.

The woman complained to the authorities and the police were ordered to keep a lookout for the truant. They got him after a few months, and he was haled before the alcalde and confronted with his wife, who carried the baby in her arms.

The facts in the case were undeniable; the defendant did not attempt to deny them. It seemed as if nothing remained for the magistrate but to assess the amount of alimony.

He paused, however, and reflected solemnly for a while. Then he asked the young woman:

"What was your occupation before you married this man?"

"I was a servant girl, Excellency," she replied.

"And what used you to earn in those days?"

"Ten pesos a month, sir."

"How have you supported yourself since your husband disappeared?"

"Since the birth of my boy, Excellency, I have taken a situation as a wet nurse."

"And what may be your wages in that position?"

"Thirty pesos a month, your Honor."

"Ah, so! Well, it seems to me the merits of the case are very plain. In becoming the husband of this young woman the prisoner has tripled her capacity for earning a livelihood. He has plainly earned a great benefit upon her, for which it is only fitting that he should be compensated."

I therefore rule that she shall pay him every month, by way of honorarium, this still leaves her twice as well off as she was before marriage. Next case!"

British Employees Protected.

There is a feature of the British Workmen's Compensation act that shows the thoroughness of the legislation secured through the efforts of the labor members of parliament. Not only does the act provide for the payment of indemnity to mechanics and laborers in cases of damage by accident, but domestic servants are also included in the protected classes.

According to the last census there are 1,641,154 female domestic servants in Great Britain. The new legal responsibilities of mistresses and other employers of these servants may be summarized as follows:

In the event of death resulting from an accident the liability of the employer is the payment of three years' wages and an allowance for board, the total sum not to exceed $-50. For temporary disablement, one-half the wages and an allowance for board must be paid during the period of incapacity. In the event of permanent disablement the provision is the same as in the case of temporary disablement, even though the person disabled may be incapacitated from work for a lifetime of many years.

The accident insurance companies are adjusting their premium rates on domestic servants to meet the conditions. Another adjustment due to the passage of the act will be the collection of the insurance premiums from employers instead of from servants.

The premium per employee per annum in the domestic class will probably be $1.20, although doubtless reductions will be given by some companies apportioned in accordance with the surroundings of employment.

Moods of the "Four Hundred."

When you begin to see the restaurants crowded to overflowing with smiling, chattering, well-dressed, rather conspicuous looking parties and when from every other hansom a hand waves or a head bows, when you cannot walk a block without meeting some friend or acquaintance, you might—if you do not know better—be excused for saying to yourself, "Ah, ah, town is filling up!" But not at all. These good people come from their country places for the day, or perhaps the week if they are sufficiently interested.

They may half-open their town houses, but they will tell you that they are "picnicking." They wear their prettiest clothes, manners and expressions; they lunch and dine together; they are the observed of all observers at the Garden (where you quite as often hear a milliner exclaim, "That's our hat in the box!" as a groom, "That's our horse in the ring!") and then, presto! they all vanish. North, south, east and west; to stay with each other, to ride, golf or automobile, as their tastes dictate, while New York is left to its ordinary work-a-day inhabitants, and the occasional charming Fashion Plates who "run in" to do a few hours' shopping for winter fancies.—Mary Manners in Broadway.

Precautions.

"What have you to be thankful for?" asked the discouraged person.

"I don't know yet," answered the optimist. "And when I find out I'm going to keep it a secret for fear somebody like you will try to argue me out of it."—Washington Star.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the controller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

of note were brought out in the discussion.

After the program all were engaged in a contest, that of building the most words from the letters contained in the name "Washington." Mrs. Thompson having the greatest number, won the prize—a handsome plate, a memorial of Washington.

The hostess then served a delicious two course luncheon. She was assisted in receiving by Miss Susie Higgins and Miss Clara Kennedy of Oklahoma City. Delightful music was furnished by the string band.

Following is a list of guests: Messrs. Thornton, Ebey, Simpson, Higgins, King, Biles, Vincent, and the Misses Higgins and Kennedy.

And thus the afternoon wore away, good-byes were said and each departed for their homes, feeling they had spent a pleasant afternoon.

FORTY-TWO CLUB

Seldom has there been in the history of Ada so enjoyable a time at that of the Forty-two club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Duncan last evening. They are inimitable in the art of making guests feel comfortable, feel at home—indeed so much better than at home that they reluctantly leave for home.

A pleasant game of progressive forty-two, according to custom of the club, was the ranking pastime of the evening. The pleasure was enhanced by tasteful decorations. Pendant over each table was a garland of patriotic festoon, in which were conspicuous the Washington hatchet and cherries. Also the score cards were artistically patterned after the weapon with which the Father of His Country made his vandalistic attack upon the homestead forestry. Moreover there were powdered crests to remind one of the days colonial. The game itself was a pleasure, though as usual gentlemen were careless and "threw off" while the ladies did the work.

Most toothsome refreshments, seasonably terminated the game, and guests were favored with some excellent music.

B. Y. P. U.

The home of Judge and Mrs. U. G. Winn was a scene of loveliness last evening, the occasion being the entertainment given for the members of the B. Y. P. U., and their friends. The home was beautifully decorated, the colors red, white and blue being used, while the hatchet and the cherry tree were in evidence to remind all of the birthday of George Washington. The program consisted of appropriate music, readings and lively contests. Delicious refreshments were served, consisting of punch, fruit salad, cake and chocolate.

Mrs. Winn and her sister, Miss Nettie Gibbs, proved themselves ideal hostesses. In bidding them "good night," all of the large crowd of young people, who were present, thanked them most heartily for the delightful evening, and expressed wishes for a speedy recurrence of such an occasion.

THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

The members of the XX Century Club entertained their husbands at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Thornton on Friday evening. The house was very beautifully and appropriately decorated with national flags. Dominoes was the game for the evening, interspersed with instrumental music.

Small flags were used for the scores, an additional star being added for each game won. When the game was finished some flags were literally covered with "new stars."

Delicious ice cream was served with the traditional cherries and cake.

M. Y. D. S. C. E.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Sneed last evening the Magnolia Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor assembled in a session both business and social in its nature.

The Washingtonian motif prevailed in decorations and in pastimes. Mr. and Mrs. Berry impersonated George and Martha Washington charmingly. "The Penny," "Advertisements" and "Our Presidents" were the chief games. Presnel Sugg was awarded the appropriate prize, a hatchet, for having won in the games.

Guests were regaled with dainty refreshments in which cherries were conspicuous.

The following new officers were chosen for the society: Mrs. Orville Sneed, president; Miss Eula Clare Sims, vice president; Philip Thompson, secretary; Alpha Sledge, treasurer; Alma Ingram, organist.

H. J. Brown for Justice

H. J. Brown has concluded to offer for the office of Justice of the Peace in the precinct to include Ada.

Mr. Brown is so well and favorably known in this community it is scarcely worth while to state his ambitions are subject the action of the Democratic primary; neither, perhaps, is it necessary for The News to comment on his general fitness for the office, yet, there are always some voters, however well known by the candidate, who want to know all about him—and they have a right to know.

Mr. Brown is a Tennessean by birth, and there resided a large portion of life. In that state for four years—in Putnam county—he made the people a good sheriff. That, with other positions of public trust, has given a thorough conception of ordinary official duties and has well equipped him for the tasks of an efficient precinct magistrate.

A citizen of Ada six years, he has engaged chiefly in contracting and building work, having built hundreds of houses in this city. Incidentally, for a time he was connected with his son Marvin in the publication of a newspaper in Ada, but the fact that he has been a newspaper man should not be held against him. He has repented. He is a contractor and builder again.

Mr. Brown is a Christian gentleman, an excellent citizen, a pillar in the higher lodge world, a man of genuine judicial poise and stern integrity—one who would be an ornament to the office of justice of the peace.

For City Attorney.

Thomas P. Holt authorizes the News to announce his candidacy for city attorney of Ada subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

Of all those who have announced for the various offices of whatever character, there could not be promised for any of them more efficient service in any capacity in behalf of respective constituencies than that which will be awarded by Mr. Holt in the event he is elected to the important position of city attorney of Ada.

Mr. Holt has received the best college training both in the literary and law departments. He has been engaged in the practice of law several years, three of which have been in this district. Through his conscientious and intelligent attention to all business entrusted he has acquired a good clientele. Mr. Holt is courageous. He will perform his full duty should he be favored with the office. The News bespeaks for him the careful consideration of the voters of Ada.

Notice.

The Democrats of the city of Ada are requested to meet at the United States Commissioners court room Monday night, February 25, at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of electing officers of the Ada Democratic Club and to transact such other business as may be deemed advisable.

In case the court room can not be secured the meeting will be held at the Mayor's Office.

President Ada Democratic Club.

ABSORB THE POISON

PHYSICIAN TELLS OF QUALITIES OF "MADSTONES."

New Clay Pipe, Easily Procurable, as Good as Any—All Worthless When Venom Has Entered the Circulation.

Physicians are often asked whether there really is any virtue in what are called madstones. One of them writing in the Medical Times declares that these stones are of value but they would be of more value if their limitations were understood.

There is no particular variety of stone or substance which may be designated exclusively as the mad stone. It may be a piece of flint, a piece of quartz, a piece of mica, or a piece of any other mineral which is found in the same composition as the stone which is called a mad stone.

Madstones act on the same principle that a blotting paper acts. It absorbs ink and there is a mad stone which absorbs the venom of a snake bite. A new clay pipe is made of a better material than the old pipe. A new clay pipe is made of a better material than the old pipe.

The action can be clearly demonstrated by placing a common dried brick in contact with the margin of a puddle of water and pouring water capillary attraction will accomplish. Therefore to be efficient the only necessity is for the stone to be porous and have strong adhesive and absorbent qualities. Nothing mysterious about it.

I have seen several that appear to be concretions of other mineral or biliary and were found in the bladder kidney. Many of some minerals—those taken from the deer supposed to be the best.

When a person is bitten by a reptile or a snake and the venom enters the blood stream, the blood stream carries the venom to the heart and the heart carries the venom to the lungs. The lungs carry the venom to the arteries and the arteries carry the venom to the rest of the body.

The stone acts on the blood stream in the same way that a blotting paper acts on ink. It absorbs the venom and prevents it from entering the blood stream. The stone acts on the blood stream in the same way that a blotting paper acts on ink.

For instance, in a snake bite, the stone is placed on the wound and the venom is absorbed. The stone acts on the blood stream in the same way that a blotting paper acts on ink. It absorbs the venom and prevents it from entering the blood stream.

I know of a stone which has a wide reputation and is a good living for the family. They have let it go out of the light and when the victim can not be taken to the stone one member of the family can be hired to take the stone to the victim. In the case of a traveling salesman they charge $2 for the application and $2 extra for each hour that the stone sticks.

This stone is only a large part of the time. Not since the stone held a victim for over one hundred hours. The man died. His life could have been saved if dependance had not been placed entirely in the stone.

Russia's Royalties. During the hottest months of summer the Russian Imperial family remove to the Cottage, a seaside palace in the Alexander Park at Peterhoff, on the Gulf of Finland.

The Alexander palace is a long low white building in the midst of a lovely park. Its beautiful private gardens are abuzz with flowers and there are all sorts of surprises for the favored visitor. Here is a miniature fort, three different athletic apparatus and a little cottage with a stable and deer. Little garden round it where the small grand duchesses experiment in house-keeping and gardening. When they are tired of that sort of amusement they can enjoy motoring riding or driving in the long wooded avenue which surrounds the palace says Home Notes.

Inside the great hall at Peterhoff there are fitted toboggan slides for bad weather. The palace is indeed a half day house and whatever carries the five children may have in the future, owing to their exalted position their child hood is at any rate as happy and in sport as was that of their mother—little Princess Sunny as she used to be called.

Had a Feeling of Curiosity. I was asked to find out when you would pay this little account said the collector pleasantly.

Really answered the debtor "I am unable to enlighten you. However there is a business in the next block who throws a line and reveals the future at 50 cents a throw.

I've no money to waste growled the collector. "Just add the 50 cents to my account continued the other, for I have a curiosity on the point myself."

TALE OF FELINE SAGACITY.

Wondrous Story Wrote on Circle of Unbelievers.

"I've got an old tom cat at my house that once saved nine lives." "That's easy," butted in the man who had his feet on the table. "He dodged the fission that you threw at him."

Perhaps he got tired of being starved at your house and crawled away to some neighbors," suggested the man with the baggy kneed trousers.

Your shrewdness does you infinite credit gentleman said the first speaker handing each of them a cheap cigar. "Permit me to reward you."

But you don't quite guess it. This cat in nosing around the premises found a pitcher of cream. He stuck his head down into it. It was a tight fit but he managed to get his head inside. Then he was in a fix. His nose was in the cream and he couldn't get his head back through the opening.

Any other cat would have suffocated to death inside of it. Why interrupted the man with the green goggles didn't he?

I'm the pitcher against the floor and break it. I know you would ask that question. He couldn't. It was made of pewter. I am telling this story please remember and don't cut in again. This cat was confused for a moment of course. Any cat would have been. He crawled around a little, and stuck his tail up in the air but he didn't make any sound. He had sense enough to know that he couldn't carry on a conversation with the outside world while his nose and mouth were buried in thick cream. He squirmed down and seemed to consider the matter. Then he heaved. He had made up his mind. He felt his way to the nearest wall and when he found it he reared up on his hind feet and stuck his head with that cream pitcher on it straight up in the air and stood there. That inverted the pitcher you know and the cream began to ooze out and ran down on the floor. Presently his tail began to twitch. He was as if to say to the cat who was watching him. FAST WEALTH OURS

UNITED STATES RICHEST COUNTRY ON EARTH.

Outstripping Anything That Ever Has Been Known in History Is the Measure of Uncle Sam's Affluence.

The United States is the wealthiest country in the world. In the brief span of its young life this infant nation of ours has broken all records relating to the accumulation of riches and we are beginning to think of billions instead of millions. Take it any way you like and the measure of our affluence outstrips anything that has ever been known before says the New York Sun.

Our country has more actual money more gold a larger volume of exports greater banking facilities richer farms more productive mines more millionaires more well to do trades men more independent farmers, more highly paid laborers and a greater distribution of the luxuries which riches bring than any other nation has ever enjoyed since time began.

One day last October Uncle Sam had gathered into his money storehouse in Washington the greatest amount of gold ever collected at one place in the history of the world—gold representing $871,893,849. This was indeed a high water mark. We had there in one little room more gold than was in circulation in Great Britain.

The largest receipt ever given the greatest money trust ever undertaken in history was when the present treasurer of the United States, Charles H. Drexler, went into office. He receipts for all the money and securities in the vaults of the treasury a total of $1,279,082,778. It required the money to be compared with the receipts the accounts balance to a fraction.

TITLES TO ARCTIC LANDS.

Lands Hitherto Unknown Discovered and Named by Explorers.

The voyage of the Canadian government cruiser Arctic to the far north suggests for consideration the question of the ownership of some far northern lands. For many years explorers of various nationalities—British, American, Scandinavian and others—have ventured into the frozen wilderness lying between the Dominion of Canada and the north pole and have there discovered lands hitherto unknown and have named them and planted flags upon them. There has been much international rivalry in the work of elaborating the arctic map and of pushing on toward the pole.

But there has been little thought in the minds of the adventurers or in that of the public of the delimitation of international boundaries in the realms of paleo-ice and eternal snow. But now the Canadian government brings that thought to mind in the intimation that the Dominion extends clear to the north pole and that all the lands which have been discovered and explored in those regions no matter by whom are under the British flag.

Academically the question is somewhat complicated and might form the subject of interminable argument. There are those who hold that discovery and exploration give title to new lands while others insist that title is not perfected without actual occupation and permanent settlement. But how if the lands in question are not fit for or susceptible of settlement?

HE GOT THE COONS

MODERN DAVEY CROCKETT JUSTIFIED REPUTATION.

Animals Spouted From the "Volcano" In Drovers After Uncle Sam Had Fixed Up His Little Surprise Party.

Coons bothered the farmers living at the foot of Jockey Cap mountain so this fall that the residents finally sent a committee over to Chittenden to beg Uncle Simeon Pitt to spend a week cleaning them out, says the Northern Vt. correspondent of the New York World. They figured that Uncle Sam could get 'em if any one could, for he has the reputation of being a sort of modern Davey Crockett. If this failed they said they would be ready to throw up their hands.

While it seemed as though all the coons in the country had congregated on Jockey Cap just to make the lives of the farmers miserable they really believed there were only a few, for every time a dog was sicked on to one of the marauders he landed at the end of a mammoth hollow log the other end of which stuck fast to the base of a high cliff. They had propped this hollow log forced smoke into it set traps at its mouth and used every other means to get at the coons but it was no use and so the folk decided to send for Uncle Sam.

The famous coon hunter is getting along in years, but he responded vigorously to the call of distress, and the other day he showed up with his trusty rifle. The circumstance of the hollow log was explained to him before he had been in the village ten minutes, and, being the exemplification of promptness, the hunter hastened thither.

Ye say every blessed coon's hiked right into this 'ere hollow hole and got away?" he asked after he had made an inspection. "That's jest it, uncle," replied Hosea Park, answering for the committee. "Every one has gone right in there."

Uncle Sam climbed to the top of the cliff smiled with satisfaction and then asked for 20 men with guns. Party two responded and these men placed about a hole 50 rods back from the cliff's edge.

Now chop that ere log right off close to the rock, he commanded and you'll find that the hole contains no more coons.

The surprised farmers did as he requested and were astonished to discover a passageway leading into the mountain. That explained the mystery but it didn't capture the coons. They were wondering how Uncle Sam was going to accomplish this feat when he ordered a big bonfire of wet twigs built at the mouth of the passageway.

"There's probably a mess of 'em in the cliff," he said "an' we'll just smoke 'em right up through the hole in the top till they come out of the chimney like stuns out of a volcano." Two minutes after the fire was started sounds of snaling and clapping came from within and immediately coons just spouted out of the volcano.

At the first signs of eruption the guns began to pop and as the fusillade continued it sounded as though a great battle was being fought. The air was full of bullets, buckshot, fur and exclamations and when the volcano had exhausted itself coons were piled three feet deep all around the mouth of the crater. How many were killed no one knows but there will be enough skins according to reports, to carpet the church.

Old Time "Curl Up" Skates.

Few of the present generation of skaters ever saw a pair of old fashioned curl up" skates or know what they are, but if they are native born their parents or grandparents can probably tell them all about these old time appliances for skimming over the ice. The boys and girls of today have quick fastening light and handsome skates, and in many cases keep them attached to shoes that are used only for skating and are put on at the pond side.

In the old days straps for the "curl ups" were unknown leather thongs or stout strings being used with a sort of harness" to keep the skates on the feet. The term curl up" comes from the manner in which the forward end of the skate frame were curled extending over the toe of the foot. Doubtless many of the old folks can remember when the cheapest skates consisted only of a wood bottom for the foot and a strip of metal for an ice surface. These were cheap indeed.

Not Arousing Indignation.

I told you said the merchant, "to mark this box handle with care. What's this nonsense you've printed here?" "That," said the college graduate, "is the Latin for handle with care. How do you expect the baggage man to understand that?" He went and therefore he went get mad and smash the box.

MURDERERS WHO HAVE PLEADED FOR EXECUTION OF SENTENCE.

The case of the condemned murderer, who the other day practically sentenced himself by refusing to sign a petition for a reprieve, is not so rare at many people imagine.

One famous parallel instance was that of Rev. Mr. Hackman, who shot an actress, Miss Reay, as she was leaving the stage door of Convent Garden theater, and who, although actually offered a commutation, preferred to die upon the gallows in the execution of his crime.

Only a few weeks back, again, the Terlin papers chronicled the case of a wealthy land owner, who, having shot a servant in a fit of passion, tried him with himself as judge, and sentenced himself to ten years' solitary confinement in one of his own private dungeons in his own medieval castle in the heart of the Black Forest.

Nine years and some odd months of this punishment he actually endured, his house steward doing him out daily a meager ration of coarse prison fare. Unluckily for him however, the authorities got to hear of the affair and he was haled before the ordinary tribunal to await his trial in due course.

Another extraordinary case also, curiously enough of German origin, was that of a sergeant major of an infantry regiment stationed in Bremen, who a few weeks back sentenced himself to be shot by a squad of his own men. The soldier thought they were firing blank, but the self condemned man had surreptitiously removed the harmless cartridges and substituted ball ammunition so that at his own word of command "Fire," he fell dead.

Finally it may be mentioned that John Lee the Babbacombe murderer, who survived three separate attempts to hang him owing to some defect in the machinery of the drop, insisted vehemently that his sentence must be carried out according to law.

This is of course quite contrary to the generally received opinion regarding the case. But the writer was recently assured of its correctness by the convicts own mother and her assurance is borne out by Rev. John Pitkin who was chaplain of Exeter gaol at the time.

Said a gentleman the other day. When I attempted to execute him (the murderer) he called out again and again. He third attempt to hang him. The executioner should have posted a sign saying "Aren't they go to hang me?" will be exact. — Boston's Weekly.

Pharmacy.

One of the physicians in New York was in a bad straits in his young life and asked long and hard for a remedy. He was engaged in a small shop in a busy street in the midst of students boarding houses and said. On night a woman asked for an ounce of some deadly poison. What are you going to do with it?" said the young pharmacist. She replied quickly. I am going to drink it. I am weary of living. I shall commit suicide. In that case," she he, I won't sell it to you. You will have to obtain it elsewhere." She laughed. Oh do you take me for a fool? If I wanted to kill myself do you suppose I'd tell you? Honestly, I want the medicine for my husband, a longshoreman who is in great distress. "That's different," said our young friend, who thereupon sold the poison and made her sign for it. As she passed out the door she yelled in maniacal tones. Ya ya! I got you that time! I'll be in hell in seven minutes!"

Colors to the Blind.

"A person blind from birth as I have been can have no possible proper conception of color was the reply. "To me color is sound, or rather, music. When I hear the word red, for example I instantly think of a high piercing note of music, blue is to me a delicately sounded note fairly high and pleasing in tone green is a soft tone and rather low, quiet and restful while yellow is lively, quick little notes rapidly sounding and causing pleasure almost to laughter. Black, this is the only color we can realize, for we are told that that is the absence of all light and we know only too well what that means."

Garbed Like Player Queen.

As she came into the corridor of the opera house (very woman's eye turned in her direction attracted by the curious head covering she wore. It looked like one of the crowns a player wears in a Shakespearean play since it consisted of nothing but a band of heavy gold braid of the kind known technically as "doublé" with a circular top to it fashioned of purple velvet. Around her neck she wore a thin scarf of a shade that toned in with the color of the velvet and the final touch of Shakespearean suggestion was added when she lifted up her skirts, disclosing her ankles clad in mauve silk stockings and her feet covered with a pair of sandals in mauve color kid through the openings in which the stockings could be plainly seen.

Advice and Simple Prescription By An Eminent Authority.

Stop loading your stomach with patent medicines and cure-alls; but get on the water wagon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines—plain common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."

When requested for such a prescription for the cure of rheumatism and kidney trouble the answer was: "You must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out of the blood the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so that it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and, most of all, you must keep these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach troubles and poor digestion. For these conditions I would suggest the following prescription, which is composed of only vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy. Anyone can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. To be taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, but don't forget the water. Drink plenty and often." This valuable information and simple prescription should be posted up in each household and used at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache or urinary trouble, no matter how slight.

Oil Mill for Maud.

Shawnee, Okla., Feb. 12.—E. L. Timmons, county surveyor, has just completed the laying off of the plat for a big oil mill to be erected at Maud on the Katy. Mayor Aydelette and P. A. Norris, both largely interested in the cotton oil mill here, will build the plant at a cost of $125,000.

British Employees Protected.

There is a feature of the British Workmen's Compensation act that shows the thoroughness of the legislation secured through the efforts of the labor members of parliament. Not only does the act provide for the payment of indemnity to mechanics and laborers in cases of damage by accident, but domestic servants are also included in the protected classes.

According to the last census there are 1,641,154 female domestic servants in Great Britain. The new legal responsibilities of mistresses and other employers of these servants may be summarized as follows: In the event of death resulting from an accident the liability of the employer is the payment of three years' wages and an allowance for board; the total sum not to exceed $430. For temporary disability, one-half the wages and an allowance for board must be paid during the period of incapacity. In the event of permanent disability the provision is the same as in the case of temporary disability, even though the person disabled may be incapacitated from work for a lifetime of many years.

The accident insurance companies are adjusting their premium rates on domestic servants to meet the conditions. Another adjustment due to the passage of the act will be the collection of the insurance premiums from employers instead of from servants.

The premium per employee per annum in the domestic class will probably be $1.20, although doubtless reductions will be given by some companies apportioned in accordance with the surroundings of employment.

Moods of the "Four Hundred."

When you begin to see the restaurants crowded to overflowing with smiling, chattering, well-dressed, rather conspicuous looking parties and when from every other hansom a hand waves or a head bows, when you cannot walk a block without meeting some friend or acquaintance, you might—if you do not know better—be excused for saying to yourself, "Ah, ah, town is 'ting up!" But not at all. These good people come from their country places for the day, or perhaps the week if they are sufficiently interested.

They may half-open their town houses, but they will tell you that they are "picnicking." They wear their prettiest clothes, manners and expressions; they lunch and dine together; they are the observed of all observers at the Garden (where you quite as often hear a milliner exclaim, "That's our hat in the box!" as a groom, "That's our horse in the ring!") and then, presto! they all vanish. North, south, east and west; to stay with each other, to ride, golf or automobile, as their tastes dictate, while New York is left to its ordinary work-a-day inhabitants, and the occasional charming Fashion Plates who "run in" to do a few hours' shopping for winter fancies.—Mary Manners in Broadway.

Precautions.

"What have you to be thankful for?" asked the discouraged person. "I don't know yet," answered the optimist. "And when I find out I'm going to keep it a secret for fear somebody like you will try to argue me out of it."—Washington Star.

Ruling of a South American Justice in a Wife Desertion Case.

A judicial decision which rivals some of Sanchez Pansa's rulings in his island is reported from Valparaiso, in the correspondence of a German newspaper. The case was that of the wife of a fisherman and coastwise sailor who was deserted by her husband shortly before the birth of their first child.

The woman complained to the authorities and the police were ordered to keep a lookout for the truant. They got him after a few months, and he was haled before the alcalde and confronted with his wife, who carried the baby in her arms.

The facts in the case were undeniable; the defendant did not attempt to deny them. It seemed as if nothing remained for the magistrate but to assess the amount of alimony.

He paused, however, and reflected solemnly for a while. Then he asked the young woman:

"What was your occupation before you married this man?"

"I was a servant girl, Excellency," she replied.

"And what used you to earn in those days?"

"Ten pesos a month, sir."

"How have you supported yourself since your husband disappeared?"

"Since the birth of my boy, Excellency, I have taken a situation as a wet nurse."

"And what may be your wages in that position?"

"Thirty pesos a month, your Honor."

"Ah, so!" Well, it seems to me the merits of the case are very plain. In becoming the husband of this young woman the defendant has tripled her capacity for earning a livelihood. He has plainly conferred a great benefit upon her, for which it is only fitting that he should be compensated. I therefore rule that she shall pay him every month ten pesos by way of honorarium; this still leaves her twice as well off as she was before marriage. Next case!"

ADA, CHICKASAW NATION, INDIAN TERRITORY.

The biggest little city in the new commonwealth. The city that has never experienced either a boom or a blow. During its six years' life it has gradually grown into a commercial and railroad center of 4,600 population. The growth has been natural, solid, and enduring.

Society excellent, good schools and strong churches; unsurpassed agricultural section; six railroad outlets; five more such outlets under contract to build by September, 1907, bonuses are raised.

Veritably Ada

is a city built upon a rock, and it will stand. It is in the logical belt of various mineral resources. Court town for 16th Recording District and unquestionably a county seat under statehood.

Not a rival town within a radius of 40 miles. In a cotton country, but not dependent upon cotton. Healthful climate; good water. Low taxes; real estate values reasonable, but rising. Ada is the place pre-eminent to live or invest in. Better get in on the ground floor before the skyscrapers come.

A big Portland cement plant with a payroll of $3,500 per week, in process of construction; $40,000 worth of waterworks improvement, including a mammoth reservoir to furnish abundant water for factories.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

of note were brought out in the discussion.

After the program all were engaged in a contest, that of building the most words from the letters contained in the name "Washington." Mrs. Thompson having the greatest number, won the prize—a handsome plate, a memorial of Washington.

The hostess then served a delicious two course luncheon. She was assisted in receiving by Miss Susie Higgins and Miss Clara Kennedy of Oklahoma City.

Delightful music was furnished by the string band.

Following is a list of guests: Mesdames Thornton, Ebey, Simpson, Higgins, King, Biles, Vincent, and the Misses Higgins and Kennedy.

And thus the afternoon wore away, good-byes were said and each departed for their homes, feeling they had spent a pleasant afternoon.

FORTY-TWO CLUB

Seldom has there been in the history of Ada so enjoyable a time at that afforded the Forty-two club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Duncan last evening. They are inimitable in the art of making guests feel comfortable, feel at home—indeed so much better than at home that they reluctantly leave for home.

A pleasant game of progressive forty-two, according to custom of the club, was the ranking pastime of the evening. The pleasure was enhanced by tasteful decorations. Pendant over each table was a ganglion of patriotic festoon, in which were conspicuous the Washington hatchet and cherries. Also the score cards were artistically patterned after the weapon with which the Father of His Country made his vandalistic attack upon the homestead forestry. Moreover there were powdered crests to remind one of the days colonial. The game itself was a pleasure, though as usual gentlemen were careless and "threw off" while the ladies did the work.

Most toothsome refreshments, seasonably terminated the game, and guests were favored with some excellent music.

B. Y. P. U.

The home of Judge and Mrs. U. G.
Winn was a scene of loveliness last evening, the occasion being the entertainment given for the members of the B. Y. P. U., and their friends. The home was beautifully decorated, the colors red, white and blue being used, while the hatchet and the cherry tree were in evidence to remind all of the birthday of George Washington. The program consisted of appropriate music, readings and lively contests. Delicious refreshments were served, consisting of punch, fruit salad, cake and chocolate.
Mrs. Winn and her sister, Miss Nettie Gibbs, proved themselves ideal hostesses. In bidding them "good night," all of the large crowd of young people, who were present, thanked them most heartily for the delightful evening, and expressed wishes for a speedy recurrence of such an occasion.

TWENTIETH CENTURY

The members of the XX Century Club entertained their husbands at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Thornton on Friday evening. The house was very beautifully and appropriately decorated with national flags. Dominoes was the game for the evening, interspersed with instrumental music.
Small flags were used for the scores, an additional star being added for each game won. When the game was finished some flags were literally covered with "new stars."

Delicious ice cream was served with the traditional cherries and cake.

M. Y. P. S. C. E.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Snead last evening the Magnolia Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor assembled in a session both business and social in its nature.

The Washingtonian motif prevailed in decorations and in pastimes. Mr.
and Mrs. Berry impersonated George and Martha Washington charmingly.
"The Penny," "Advertisements" and "Our Presidents" were the chief games. Presnel Sugg was awarded the appropriate prize, a hatchet, for having won in the games.

Guests were regaled with dainty refreshments in which cherries were conspicuous.

The following new officers were chosen for the society: Mrs. Orville Snead, president; Miss Eula Clare Sims, vice president; Phillip Thompson, secretary;
Alpha Sledge, treasurer; Alma Ingram, organist.

H. J. Brown for Justice
H. J. Brown has concluded to offer for the office of Justice of the Peace in the precinct to include Ada.

Mr. Brown is so well and favorably known in this community it is scarcely worth while to state his ambitions are subject the action of the Democratic primary; neither, perhaps, is it necessary for The News to comment on his general fitness for the office, yet, there are always some voters, however well known by the candidate, who want to know all about him—and they have a right to know.

Mr. Brown is a Tennessean by birth, and there resided a large portion of life. In that state for four years—in Putnam county—he made the people a good sheriff. That, with other positions of public trust, has given a thorough conception of ordinary official duties and has well equipped him for the tasks of an efficient predict magistrate.

A citizen of Ada six years, he has engaged chiefly in contracting and building work, having built hundreds of houses in this city. Incidentally, for a time he was connected with his son Marvin in the publication of a newspaper in Ada, but the fact that he has been a newspaper man should not be held against him. He has repented.
He is a contractor and builder again.

Mr. Brown is a christian gentleman, an excellent citizen, a pillar in the higher lodge world, a man of genuine judicial poise and stern integrity—one who would be an ornament to the office of justice of the peace.

For City Attorney.

Thomas P. Holt authorizes the News to announce his candidacy for city attorney of Ada subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

Of all those who have announced for the various offices of whatever character, there could not be promised for any of them more efficient service in any capacity in behalf of respective constituencies than that which will be awarded by Mr. Holt in the event he is elected to the important position of city attorney of Ada.

Mr. Holt has received the best college training both in the literary and law departments. He has been engaged in the practice of law several years, three of which have been in this district. Through his conscientious and intelligent attention to all business intrusted he has acquired a good chentele. Mr. Holt is courageous.
He will perform his full duty should he be favored with the office. The News boutspeak for him the careful consideration of the voters of Ada.

Notice.

The Democrats of the city of Ada are requested to meet at the United States Commissioners court room Monday night, February 25, at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of electing officers of the Ada Democratic Club and to transact such other business as may be deemed advisable.

In case the court room can not be secured the meeting will be held at the Mayor's Office.

J. P. Wood,
President Ada Democratic Club.
